Continuation of Substance of Interview including description of the general nature of what was agreed to if an agreement was reached, or any other comments: Applicant's argument of a combined loading rating of all of the springs is less than 6,000 lb/in is not persuasive as at least one coil spring is being claimed in independent claim 1. Also, applicant's argument of a coped or angled surface at the top of the cup is not persuasive in light of the fact that no specific angle or geometry is being claimed. Moreover, applicant's argument of a keying feature extending diagonally about a longitudinal axis of the cup is met by the prior art reference in light of the fact that the the keying feature is positioned on opposite sides along a longitudinal axis of the cup. It was suggested that applicant provides a declaration to explain the major difference between existing spring designs or the unexpected result of his invention .
